Psagot

Dear Friend of Israel,

I will always remember my first visit to Psagot. Words just can't convey what it feels like to live in a community that shares a perimeter with an Arab city like Ramallah. Seeing the dedication of the people who live there makes me realize how spoiled we are. Every day tests their faith; yet, not only do they persevere, but they have determined to grow despite the hardships. Their new neighborhood "The Ai" embodies the best qualities of Israel -- an ancient archeological site with remains that date to the time of Biblical Joshua and modern day pioneers who have chosen to follow in their forefathers' footsteps and build their homes on these ancient hilltops.

I have always been amazed by those who say Jews don't have a right to live in the Land of Israel, because they can't prove that the Jewish people ever lived there. To me archeology plays such an important role in the modern state of Israel. As a Christian, my faith is built on the books of the ancient Hebrew Bible; the stories of Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Ruth and David inspire me and enrich my life. When I get to experience those stories by seeing ancient artifacts that prove they are true and not simply fables or good stories I am strengthened and encouraged in my faith.

Today, the people of Psagot are asking for help to create a place where everyone can come and experience the past through ancient artifacts and the stories that archeology tell. You can be a part of building Israel stronger by investing in the community of Psagot. Your donation will be used to enrich the area and strengthen the Jewish claim to the land. Thank you for joining with us and building Biblical Israel stronger!
